

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA.

TUESDAY EVENING, OCT. 11, 1892.

MR. COCKRILL, who was a democrat and a great Cleveland man as long as he retained his place on the N. Y. World, has become the rank and file Republican, anti-Cleveland man and South-later in the North, though he is a southern man. He now says, in the New York Herald:

"It must be admitted that the assembling here last week of the democratic club representatives, the victories in the late Southern Confederacy, where the Calhoun free trade sentiment and hatred of the patriotic party of the North have been aroused by the Chicago platform; the accession of Cleveland's ex-law partner, MacVeagh, and likewise Judge Gresham, have inspired the followers of the Claimant somewhat. Hilariousness is even reported from Calumet headquarters, but it is the hilarity of a man who is now content with his private station, and looks on political affairs with an impartial air, told the GAZETTE's correspondent today that he really believed that what a newsboy here said to him a short time ago would prove true. It was on the 20th ult., when this city was overrun with the G. A. R., and as he stepped out of his hotel and bought a newspaper he jokingly asked the boy, who had the town that day? The boy replied: 'The Yanks got it today, but the Johnny Rebs will have it on the 4th of March and keep it.' Continuing, he said he not only believed that Cleveland and a democratic House would be elected, but was convinced that the democrats would have the Senate also, as the whole trend of popular feeling was in that direction.

The fire at Riley's stable, in south Washington, last night, killed fifty-nine horses, all but four of the entire number it contained. The loss over them was filled with hay, and it and the floor upon which it rested, all in a blaze, fell upon them.

Chief Justice Fuller says the Supreme Court of the United States will adjourn late this week and go to Chicago to take part in the ceremonies of dedicating the Chicago fair buildings, and that six of the eight Associate Justices will accompany him, but two of the members finding it impossible to make the journey.

Mr. Wheelock, the manager of the Washington and Arlington electric railroad, says that road is now running to the gate of Arlington, and that the receipts are now so large that he has no doubt capitalists will now advance the money required to build the bridge at the Three Sisters, so that the road may cross the river and come into Washington.

Count Mikiewicz is still here where his wife is sick. The New York Record has apologized for the manner in which it spoke of the Count's wife. The Count has signified his willingness to appear in New York as soon as Mr. Shepard of the New York Mail and Express, who backs him, is able to come into court.

The President this evening decided that he would be unable to go to New York at all, during the Columbus celebration there, and has requested Vice-President Morton to represent him on occasions.

Congressman Meredith of the Alexandria, Virginia, district, was at the Capitol today. He will speak at Baltimore, Alexandria county, to-night. Mr. Meredith says he thinks Cleveland's majority in Virginia will be not less than twenty-five thousand.

In the U. S. Supreme Court to-day argument in the case involving the validity of the constitutionality of the Minor law of Michigan, was commenced by H. M. Duffield, for the Michigan party, which is seeking to have the law declared unconstitutional. The political aspect of the case is very pronounced as it is conceded that the effect of the decision in favor of the validity of the law will give some of Michigan's electoral vote to the democrats. That republicans appreciate its importance both in this election and in its possible far-reaching consequence in the future is shown by the appearance of Attorney General Miller in the case as one of the counsel on the republican side of the question. The Attorney General does not appear in his official capacity, but as a private counsel. He will take part in this country for the Attorney General to participate in a private case and his appearance to-day was a subject of talk among lawyers.

The President in an interview with Mr. Solomon Hirsch, the U. S. Minister to Turkey, accepted the resignation tendered by Mr. Hirsch some time ago.

Dr. Gardner made his usual visit to the White House at 9 o'clock this morning. As he was leaving the house he said that Mrs. Harrison was then resting comfortably and was slightly better than when he saw her last night.

Mr. Lawrence Gardner, who is in charge of democratic headquarters here, has just come from the national headquarters of his party in New York. He is elated at the intelligence he received there, and seems to be confident of democratic success.

THE RESULT of the recent election in Georgia has been so disastrous to the republicans of that State that they have resolved to take no more fusion in theirs, and to go it on their own hook hereafter. Weaver, Watson and women left very little of them, and they should thank their stars that they came out even with their present corporal's guard. The third parties have gone from "extremes to extremities," and people who have any regard for their own reputation as reasonable creatures don't like to have anything to do with them. There must be something the matter with a southern man who wants to tax himself and his poor neighbors to give northern soldiers the difference between the value of gold and the greenbacks they received for bounty thirty years ago.

ONE OF THE strangest things of this strange, eventful age is the fact that while the republicans seem to be so dead in love with reciprocity—which is only another name for free trade—they should restrict it to the West Indies and South America, with which the trade of this country is comparatively insignificant, and prohibit it with Canada and Mexico, with which the trade is immense, and with all other foreign countries, near by or far off. What is true of a part is true of the whole, and if reciprocity with far away Brazil is advantageous to this country, why wouldn't it be more so with those countries into which Americans can step across their own borders?

SENATOR SHERMAN is now spoken of by some of the northern republican press as pre-eminent authority on finance and economic questions. But it was only a few years ago that Mr. Sherman inclined strongly to greenbackism, and he is now working around that way again; and his avowed opposition to tariff restrictions upon trade is fresh in the memory of every body who pays any attention to such subjects. But as Mr. Reid, the republican candidate for Vice President says, "nearly every thing goes in politics," that is in republican politics.

THE REPUBLICANS are now charging the democrats with colonizing negroes from Tennessee, the District of Columbia, and Maryland and Virginia, in New York, so as to increase the democratic vote in that State next month. Of course the charge is untrue, but if it were otherwise, what a pat illustration it would be of the old saw that chickens come home to roost.

THE democratic U. S. House of Representatives, at its last session, made an additional appropriation for Mr. Porter, the superintendent of the census. Mr. Porter returns the favor by twisting the census bulletins into republican campaign documents. Mr. Porter believes in reciprocity, but not in kind.

J. Frank Lee, a retired broker, crazed with drink, shot at imaginary foes, nearly killed his mother and his physician, and wounded himself and the elevator man of his apartment house in New York yesterday.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.

Acting Commissioner Wilson, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, received a telegram this morning from Revenue Agent Knisely, now at Fayetteville, Lincoln county, Tenn., saying that two men have been arrested on suspicion of complicity in the recent murder of Deputy Collectors Mather and Cardwell near Flintville, and that Deputy Collector Spurrer, who was seriously wounded on the same occasion, is still alive. Nothing has been heard from Revenue Agent Chapman, who has also started out with a posse in search of the persons implicated in this shooting affair.

Collector Brady of Petersburg, and Collector Banks, Mr. Nichols and ex-Congressman Dezenford of Norfolk, Va., who have been to New York to make statements to the national republican committee, were in this city yesterday on their way home. The three latter left by the Norfolk boat last night, but the former stopped here. They didn't say so in so many words, but it was evident from what they did say, that if republican candidates for Congress in Virginia this fall spend any money, it will come out of their own pockets, for not a cent will come from the national republican committee for any such purpose. Gen. Mahone is the Virginia member of that committee.

State Senator Little of Fredericksburg, Judge Smith of Warrenton, and Commonwealth's Attorney Marbury of Alexandria, Va., have been invited to address the Virginia Democratic Association of this city next Friday night.

An ex-Congressman here to-day who is now content with his private station, and looks on political affairs with an impartial air, told the GAZETTE's correspondent today that he really believed that what a newsboy here said to him a short time ago would prove true. FATHER AND DAUGHTER MURDERED. Richard L. Johnson and his daughter were murdered Friday night at Davis ferry, Monroe county, Ala., near the Wilcox county line. Johnson was a Northern man who settled there in 1867 and lived alone with his beautiful and accomplished daughter. The murderers are supposed to have had designs upon the girl. They called Johnson to his gate and killed him with an axe. The bodies were placed in the house and the house set on fire. The neighbors were attracted to the scene by the light of the fire and next morning found the bodies. A search was instituted, and at the house of Burrill Jones, colored, three hundred yards distant from Johnson's, an axe with blood on it was found, the shirt of a brother of Jones, named Moses, and of a son of Jones were found spotted with blood. The citizens have all three men as prisoners and when last heard from were trying to get the boys to confess. Five other negroes have been arrested, charged with aiding in the commission of the crime.

THE EPISCOPAL COUNCIL.

Yesterday in the House of Deputies of the Episcopal Council, in session in Baltimore, the committee on elections asked that Rev. J. W. Cain, of Galveston, Tex., the only colored deputy, be seated in place of Rev. J. M. Beckwith, of Texas, who is unable to be present, which was done.

Ex-Senator R. E. Withers, of Virginia, offered an amendment to Canon 6, and asked its reference to the committee on canons, and it was so ordered. The amendment authorizes the Diocese of West Virginia to enter into federated councils with the Diocese of Virginia. Under the canon, West Virginia has been debarred since her elevation into a separate diocese.

Dr. Dix announced that a message (No. 7) had been received from the House of Bishops relative to the report of the committee on Hymnals, that it be recommended for revision and suggestions. The committee will report on Friday next.

Rev. George S. Bennett, of Newark, presented a report on deaconesses, to the effect that, where any deaconess may resign from any cause not affecting character, she shall be eligible for reinstatement, and also slightly changing the phraseology of the laws concerning deaconesses. The report was referred to the committee on canons.

The report of the committee on amendments to the constitution was recommended.

The house then resumed the consideration of the proposed changes in the prayer-book. Resolution 23 provides that, in the ministrations of baptism, to such as are of other years, for the words "these persons" or "the persons," wherever they occur in the prayers, and for the words "these persons" where they occur the second time in the third of the rubrics at the end of the service, there be substituted the words "these thy servants." The resolution was adopted unanimously without discussion.

Resolution 24 (adopted by the House of Bishops) was rejected by the House of Deputies. The resolution provided that in the ceremony of baptism, instead of the words now used, "I baptize thee in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit," the words "I baptize thee in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, who are united in the Godhead" be used. The resolution was rejected by a vote of 10 to 1.

Resolution 25 was adopted by a practically unanimous vote and without discussion, as also resolutions 26, 27 and 28, the three first noticing changes in the wording simply of the ceremony of baptism, and the latter in the form of order of confirmation.

The 29th resolution, relating to marriage, caused some discussion. It proposed to insert in the form of solemnization of matrimony that "it is an honorable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocence, signifying unto us the mystical union that is between Christ and his church, which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence and his blood, the sacrament of which is called the Eucharist." The resolution was adopted.

Resolution 30, which the House of Bishops had rejected, was lost in the House of Deputies. The resolution provided a special communion service, where any at all was celebrated, at the time of a marriage ceremony, and was an addition to the service.

Resolution 31, also rejected by the House of Bishops, was lost. It provided a special prayer for patience under suffering in the "Order for the Visitation of the Sick."

Resolutions 32 and 33, providing for a change in the wording of the commendatory prayer for the sick, and in the communion for the sick and in times of contagious sickness or disease, or extreme weakness, were adopted.

Resolution 34 provided that, in the "Order for the Burial of the Dead," there be inserted: "Jesus called them unto him and said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God.'" and also Revelation, vii. 16-17. Rev. Dr. Robert, of Missouri, objected to the first insertion, "because," said he, "I do not wish to invite the Lord to take my little children from me before he is ready to call them." The resolution was lost.

Resolutions 35 and 36 were adopted. They provide for additional psalms, etc., for the burial service simply, and in changes of phraseology.

Resolution No. 37, which introduced three new prayers into the burial services, was rejected.

Resolution No. 38, which provided an addition to the order of the burial of the dead at sea, was adopted.

Resolution No. 39, providing that in the form of prayer and thanksgiving, was adopted, as was also Resolution 41, providing that "selections of Psalms for Holy Days," which immediately precedes the Psalter, be omitted.

Resolution No. 42, which provides, "In the order for Good Friday evening use Psalm lxxv. instead of Psalm lxxix," was rather innocently-looking, but excited the warmest and most protracted debate of the day. These two psalms have an interesting and ancient history, and have long been a bone of dissension in the church. Psalm lxxix was originally used and is now in the Anglican Church. The first part is a beautiful piece of composition and is regarded as especially appropriate to the day; but the latter part is very severe in dealing with enemies and the Psalmist's God. In 1789, after the close of the Revolutionary War, a strong party in the church thought the psalm too severe, and Psalm lxxv was substituted. It was then claimed that the latter psalm was at first intended to form part of the service, but Psalm lxxix was put into the book through a typographical error. The matter was more or less discussed at each succeeding general convention, and six years ago, at Chicago, Psalm lxxix was restored. Three years ago, mainly through the eloquence of Bishop Phillips Brooks, then a clerical deputy from Massachusetts, Psalm lxxix was again put into the prayer book. There has been considerable feeling on the subject since the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis," which were stricken from the prayer book in 1789, along with Psalm lxxix, had long since been restored, and a strong element in the church desired the restoration also of Psalm lxxix. The resolution was lost and Psalm lxxix will be used in the service.

Resolution 43, the change proposed being simply a question of punctuation, for purposes of chanting properly, was adopted unanimously.

In the House of Bishops the order of the day was the report of the committee on canons. The change in canon 15, requiring the minister to report the amounts of the church alms to the bishops, and ordering that the amounts of offering be ascertained and certified to by two members of the vestry, was adopted.

The question of creating suffragan bishops, somewhat upon the plan in vogue in the Anglican Church, caused considerable discussion, and the canon bearing upon the subject was referred to a special committee, of which Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, is chairman. These suffragan bishops have less authority than assistant bishops, and only exercise in their own territory such Episcopal functions as may be assigned by the bishops of the diocese.

The canon on marriage and divorce also created considerable discussion, and was under consideration when the house adjourned, having been partly adopted. The sections adopted are as follows:

"If any persons be joined together otherwise than as God's Word doth allow, their marriage is not lawful.

"No minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person under eighteen years of age, except the parent or guardian of such person be present or shall have written consent to the marriage.

"No minister shall solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses.

"Every minister of this church shall keep an official register of marriages, in which, at the time of the marriage, he shall record the names, birthplace, age, residence, and condition of each party; and the said record, duly transcribed in the said register, shall be signed by both parties to the marriage, by at least two witnesses, and by the minister who performs the ceremony.

"No minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising out of marriage; but this canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery; or to parties once divorced seeking to be united again. Title II, Canon 13, § 2, of present canon, omitting in the first line the words, 'knowingly after due inquiry.'

A committee was appointed to arrange some special service for the Columbian celebration on October 21. Assistant Bishop Gilbert, of Minnesota, introduced a resolution to reorganize the missionary council of the church, which meets annually, with a view of securing a large lay representation.

A WIFE'S ESCAPE.—Naval circles in Washington have been thrown into excitement by a sensational story that came to light yesterday. The parties to the scandal, which may equal the famous Hetherton case, are Surgeon Samuel H. Dickson, of the navy, now on duty at the Marine Hospital in that city, and a young Englishman named Carter, a great society man, possessed of wealth, a member of the University and other swell clubs.

For several months Surgeon Dickson has suspected that his wife was unduly intimate with her husband, and he hired detectives and had his wife watched day and night. On Friday last the detectives informed Dickson that his wife and Carter were registered at the National Hotel, Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Dickson went to his friends, Lieutenant Commander Cowden, of the ordnance department, and Dick Wakeman, a well known man about town and a member of the Metropolitan Club, and asked them to accompany him.

The party reached the hotel and found Carter and Mrs. Dickson dining. They waited until the repast that they were enjoying was finished, and the couple had retired to their rooms in the hotel. Then Dickson and his friends broke in upon the startled couple, and a lively time ensued.

The injured husband slapped Carter's face and called him very hard names, but his wife, who was the coolest of the party, asked him if he intended to make trouble and bring disgrace upon all concerned. "I don't care whether I do or not," said Dickson. During the personal discussion Commander Cowden and Wakeman left the room.

Mrs. Dickson is a handsome blonde of medium height, but trimly built. She has always figured largely in fashionable circles here, and is a popular woman making her exceedingly popular among the hunting set. Dickson was appointed from Philadelphia, Pa.

Foreign News.

VIENNA, Oct. 11.—Emperor William arrived at the railway station here at noon to-day. Emperor Francis Joseph, a number of high military officials and several of the ministers, awaited his coming. As soon as the train bearing the German Emperor had come to a stop in the station, his majesty sprang to the platform. The two rulers threw their arms about each other and kissed repeatedly. Emperor Francis Joseph and Emperor William were driven to the Imperial chateau at Schonbrunn.

The entire route from the railway to Schonbrunn was lined with people who gave the German Emperor an enthusiastic welcome.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—In the next issue of the Review of Reviews Mr. Stead, its editor, will have an article headed, "Ought Mr. Maybrick to be tortured to death." Mr. Stead says that both he and Sir Charles Russell, the attorney, have received from South Africa copies of the death bed confession of Harry Wilson, who declared that he, with a woman whose name is not given, placed arsenic in the medicine that was administered to Mr. Maybrick during his last illness.

NAVAL PARADE IN NEW YORK. New York, Oct. 11.—Bright and early this morning thousands started for good places to view the naval parade. Long before noon every available place on and overlooking the bay was crowded. The naval parade was one of the most novel sights ever witnessed. The series of gigantic floats upon which were shown scenes illustrative of the remarkable advance in shipbuilding since Columbus discovered America was one of the best displays. The men-of-war that participated were the Philadelphia, Atlanta, Dolphin, Vesuvius, St. Mary's, the trim looking French flagship L'Arethuse, the Italian cruiser Bausan, Spanish cruiser Infanta Isabel and the Cushing. The start was made at 2:30 from the upper bay. The Philadelphia was the flag ship and headed the column as the fleet advanced up the bay, amid salutes from the forts. The fleet of the naval reserve consisted of sixteen tugs divided into four squadrons. On passing Battery Park a second salute was fired by the vessels in the squadron which then proceeded up the North River to 125th street where ships anchored. When the Mayor and his guests passed the men-of-war in their boat a national salute of 21 guns was fired. This ended the naval parade.

He Fainted. CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—At last evening's session of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Church, the committee appointed to investigate the charge of immorality preferred last year against the Rev. W. E. Gifford, reported finding him guilty and recommended that he be expelled from the church. When Mr. Gifford was told of the verdict he fainted, and for half an hour he remained in an unconscious condition, but immediately on his recovery he exclaimed: "I am innocent." The finding of the committee is contrary to the verdict of the jury in the county court of Dakota which tried him on a criminal charge and acquitted him.
